

News Release

DATE: December 1, 2008
CONTACT: Jeff Close, The SPARK Institute
860-658-5058

THE SPARK INSTITUTE ANSWERS MORE TECHNICAL QUESTIONS REGARDING 403(b) PLANS INFORMATION SHARING

SIMSBURY, CT, Dec. 1 – The SPARK Institute today announced that it has posted new answers to additional technical questions it received regarding its 403(b) plans Information Sharing Data Elements Best Practices. “The new questions and answers are now on our web site at www.sparkinstitute.org/403b-q-a.php along with previously answered questions,” said Larry H. Goldbrum, general counsel of The SPARK Institute. “We are finalizing answers to additional questions and will post the answers on our web site within a week,” said Goldbrum. “Anyone interested in the information should check the web site regularly for answers to the latest questions,” he noted.

The SPARK Institute is the leading voice in Washington for the retirement services industry. Through the combined expertise of its member companies, The SPARK Institute provides research, education, testimony and comments on pending legislative and regulatory issues to members of Congress and relevant government agency officials. Collectively, its members serve over 95% of the nation’s 401(k) participants and more than 90% of all 403(b) plan participants.

###